We have received from Amherst and Boston a history of the semi-centennial of the Oxford Democrat entitled "After Fifty Years." This history is written by Wm. B. Lapham, M. D. of Amherst. It is a most interesting account of the paper from its first issue with sketches of its editors and publishers and was published in the Democrat Jan'y 8, 1881, the paper then being owned by Geo. H. Watkins. The present publishers with commendable enterprise have issued the same in a neat and well printed book of thirty-five pages with cover in gilt and red.
